

Best Places to Work 2022

The 17 firms that scored top marks from employees have one thing in common: creating a sense of community and family in the workplace.

By Nick Brandi, Paul Adler,
and Joe Cesarano

Employees enjoy a collaborative and supportive working environment at Kings Capital Construction Group in Tarrytown.

PHOTO BY KEN GABRIELSEN

CONSTRUCTION

Kings Capital Construction Group Tarrytown

kingscapitalgroup.com

Westchester-Based Employees: 28

For our first annual ranking of the Best Places to Work in Westchester, it's not surprising that Kings Capital took the crown. The Tarrytown-based construction company attributes its success to the strong relationships built among its team and partners. "We know relationships are our business," says CEO J.D. Summa. "It is critical that we create value for everyone along the way." The company hosts employee social events, such as summer happy hours, a summer barbecue, and a holiday party. More notably, the firm is the only one on our list to offer its employees subsidized full-time or part-time childcare and backup child or elder care to employees if their caregiver suddenly becomes unavailable. Through these commitments, Kings Capital is continually recognizing its workers as an essential part of their royal family and treating them accordingly.

The kings of Kings. Michael Casarella (left), COO/President of the Site Work Division, and J.D. Summa (right), CEO/President of General Construction of Kings Capital Construction Group.